DEMOCRATIC DELEGATES BEGIN THEIR WORK SWINBURNE'S FLEET SAILS FOR SAMOA

Caucus Is Roasted By C.W. Ashford In Democratic Convention

The convention was called to order at 10:22 o'clock this forenoon by Chairman Ed. Ingham of the Territorial Central Committee. Waverly Hall, in which the convention was held, was crowded with delegates, the outside districts being quite well represented.

This forenoon the temporary organization and the selection of the committees was all which was accomplished, and a recess was taken until 2 p. m., to give the committees a chance to work. The session was quiet, with the exception of a harangue by C. W. Ashford on the inequity of holding a caucus to attempt to do the work which it was really up to the convention to do, but this ended quite peacefully. Chairman Ed. Ingham tactfully averting trouble by letting the convention have its head.

This afternoon the principal features will be the discussion of the platform drawn by the Platform Committee, and the selection of a candidate for Delegate. The principal features of the platform were yesterday, as far as was possible, outlined in the Bulletin, and there can be no doubt but that Link McCandless will be selected for Delegate. The convention opened with a short prayer by M. K. Kanikanihina, whereupon the official call for the convention was read. Geo. K. Low interpreted.

Ingham reported that the caucus last night had agreed that its officers should be made the temporary officers of the convention, if agreeable to work. The session was quiet, with the exception of a harangue by C. W. Ashford on the inequity of holding a caucus to attempt to do the work which it was really up to the convention to do, but this ended quite peacefully. Chairman Ed. Ingham tactfully averting trouble by letting the convention have its head.

Ashford said that he much objected to any caucus taking upon itself to do the business of the convention. He predicted that the party was on the verge of success, but this could not be attained if such state business were permitted. The chairman should not call for such a motion. He demanded that the personnel made by this "hole-in-the-wall caucus" should be made known.

"Under what authority did this caucus meet here?" he said, "and (Continued on Page 4)

QUEEN SAYS 'TIS FALSE

Editor Evening Bulletin.

Dear Sir:—The Advertiser of this date makes Queen Liliuokalani out as supporting Mr. John Lane for Mayor. Her Majesty wishes me to state that she has nothing to do with politics; that there is no truth in the statement, and that she has never consulted Mr. Lane or any other person, in regard to his candidacy for Mayor.

Yours truly,

JOSEPH KAPEAU AEA,
Her Majesty's Secretary.

Washington Place, Honolulu, Sept. 10, 1908.

Delayed Two Hours, Pacific Fleet Sails

Delayed by a cablegram for two hours, the West Virginia pulled out of her dock at 11:25 o'clock this morning, and an hour later the Pacific Fleet steamed away in loose formation, the cruisers towing the little torpedoers, their noses pointed south for Samoa. The Solace is left behind, to get the Alameda mails tomorrow, and follow with them.

The cable received this morning was supposedly in cipher, and delay was found in reading it. At all events, the course of things was delayed by it considerably. The Iroquois, with the band on board, and with Mrs. Swinburne and other guests on deck, went out into the stream about half past nine o'clock, at which time the West Virginia should have cast off. But she did not stir and the Iroquois went back to her dock.

When the West Virginia did cast off, Governor Frear and Mr. Mott Smith, as well as Mrs. Swinburne and other navy people, were on the wharf. These went out in the Iroquois, to see the squadron get under way.

The torpedo craft maneuvered off port all morning.

The West Virginia led the way out, and the others of the second division followed some time later. By 1 o'clock this afternoon the whole of the squadron was strung out into a long line, fairly started on the long leg south.

It is probable that not one single man was left ashore, with the exception of a few sick in the Queen's hospital. The patrol did its work last evening, and the now familiar white uniforms disappeared from the streets. The collier Saturn has moved in to the Alahea street wharf.

Wireless communication is to be kept up with the Fleet every evening at 9 o'clock.

The vessels will make a ten days' stay at Suva, after which they will return to this place for a ten days' stay before going back to the Coast.

according to the schedule as now announced.

Bid $10 a Share For Kipahulu

The Kipahulu Sugar Company, in Hana, Maui, will apparently soon follow the fate of the Kihel plantation, the stockholders selling out their holdings at a sum per share much less than the par value of the stock. The stockholders held a meeting this morning at which the firm of Hackfeld & Co. submitted to them a proposition to pay $10 a share for the stock. The company is capitalized for $160,000, the shares having a par value of $100.

As the company owes large sums of money to Hackfeld & Co. and has foreclosed proceedings starting it in the face, there can be but little doubt but that the offer will be accepted. As a matter of fact, Mr. Klamp of Hackfeld & Co. intimated this afternoon that the stockholders would be only too glad for this chance to save, at least, something out of the wreck.

New McKinley High School Ready for Opening of Term

NEW MCKINLEY MEMORIAL HIGH SCHOOL, TO BE OPENED FRIDAY

The Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Principal and the Contractor who built the structure are unanimous in their approval of the new McKinley High School building. The citizen of Honolulu has only to visit the school to join with these careful and conscientious workers and applaud those responsible for the conception of the plans and the workmanship of this new home of Honolulu's high school. It is attractive in design, convenient, adapted to the immediate demands of the school, capable of enlargement at very little cost and finally a fitting memorial in every respect to the martyred President in whose honor it is named.

The formal opening exercises will be held in the large auditorium of the school tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6. These exercises though brief, will be of especial interest because the speakers will represent nearly all the numerous races and nationalities that are taught in the public schools of Hawaii. Ex-Governor Carter will lead the list. It was under his administration that the appropriation for the building was made. Prince J. K. Kaiananole, Delegate to Congress, will represent the Hawaiians, Rev. Felmy the Germans, Dr. Ichitaro, Katsuki the Japanese, Representative E. A. C. Long the part Hawaiians, Rev. F. T.

Kong the Chinese, Hon. A. D. Castro the Portuguese, Consul Forster the British and Judge Dole the people generally. These opening exercises will be held at 4 o'clock and after they are finished the building will be thrown free to inspection. It is not fair to the school to say that everything is ready for the beginning of the new term next Monday. Much of the furniture, the greater portion of it in fact, has been delayed in transportation. It is possible, however, to get along with temporary equipment, so that the work of the school will begin on time.

Grand Jury Takes Up 'Tiser's Alleged Libel

Charles Crane, manager of the Pacific Commercial Advertiser, was this morning subpoenaed to appear before the Territorial Grand Jury, and was ordered to bring with him copy for all of the editorials that appeared in that paper from August 3rd to August 10th, inclusive. Wallace R. Farrington, editor of the Bulletin, was also summoned to appear before the Grand Jury as a witness. The significance of the above statement of facts is obvious.

The Attorney-General's Department has taken cognizance of alleged libelous matter, that was published in the morning paper, and later called to the attention of that department by Mr. Farrington, of the Bulletin, and (Continued on Page 2)

Blow At Hepburn Law

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 10.—The United States Circuit Court has declared that the commodities clause of the Hepburn Interstate Commerce Law is unconstitutional.

The commodities clause of the Hepburn law provides that no concern engaged in inter-State commerce can also engage in the production of any commodity which is to be carried by the road. Thus the same company might not mine coal and carry it in inter-State traffic.
